Senator Gayle Slossberg
Public Health Committee
Room 3000
Legislative Office Building
Hartford, CT 06106

Dear Senator Slossberg,

The American Red Cross strongly supports passage of S.B. 981 AAC THE AVAILABILITY OF AUTOMATIC EXTERNAL DEFIBRILLATORS IN SCHOOLS

More than 350,000 Americans suffer from a sudden cardiac arrest each year. Less than 10 percent will be discharged from a hospital alive. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) started promptly can help. However, CPR by itself is most often insufficient to correct the problem. In more than two- thirds of all cardiac arrests, an electric shock, known as defibrillation, is needed. Studies show that prompt CPR followed by early defibrillation is can reduce death from sudden cardiac arrest. The links in the cardiac chain of survival include early activation of the emergency medical system (EMS); prompt CPR; early defibrillation; and advanced cardiac life support (ACLS). Weaknesses in any link lessen the chance of survival.

By enacting legislature to support the use of Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs) and by increasing the number of individuals that are trained to respond, the survival rate can be increased significantly. Both AED pilot programs and established programs have reported out-of-hospital cardiac arrest survival rates as high as 58 percent. Unfortunately, out-of-hospital medical care (including training, equipment and standards of care) varies from state to state, which subjects the public to inconsistent care. It is clear that legislative interventions can substantially affect the delivery of out of hospital care, resulting in increased survival rates.

The Red Cross has done research on all Connecticut Schools and concluded the following information.

Public School Districts

There are 166 Public School districts in the State of Connecticut.

64% (107 districts) of these districts have AEDs in all of their schools.

11% (18 districts) of these districts have AEDs at the High School and Middle School level only.

8% (14 districts) of these districts have AEDs at the High School level only.

5% (9 districts) of these districts have AEDs at mixed levels in their district. Most have them at the High School level but may have devices in certain primary schools due to a student with a cardiac condition.

11% (18 districts) have no AEDs in their schools.

Private Schools

Our research has found there are 306 Private Schools that may encompass grades 1 through 12 in their programs in the State of Connecticut. These numbers are more volatile than the public schools. Private schools are more likely to close, open or merge in the State.

Secondary Schools- There are 128 private schools in Connecticut that include grades 9 through 12. 59% (76 schools) of private secondary schools have AEDs at their location.

Primary Schools- There are 178 private schools in Connecticut that include grades Kindergarten through 8. 25% (45 schools) of private primary schools have AEDs at their location.

By enacting this legislation the schools in the State of Connecticut will be safer places to learn and work.

If you have any questions please feel free to contact me at jackh@mfcarc.org.

Sincerely,

Jack Harder
Director of Community Development
