To whom may it concern:

The program Nurturing families network is a great program for pregnant and new moms. It's a great program because it helps out moms. It helps out moms know about their childs developments. It also helps if the mother doesn't have a form to contact another person for help other than doctors, they have a person to turn to. It's a great program because it also has great activities that the home visitor can do with the person to learn new things. I don't think it should get closed because it's a nice way for New moms to learn new things to learn about their baby.

Sincerly,
