What Strive has done for me?

I attented Strive/Career Resources for Cycle 123 in August, 2012. Last summer. At first I wasn't sure what Strive could do for me as at the time I already had a job, however it wasn't a full time job. I thought I might as well give it a chance to learn the necessary skills to get the job that I wanted, not just the job that I had. After attending Strive/Career Resources necessary 3 week workshop I realized that I had making so many vital mistakes in my job search, preventing me from getting the job that I wanted. I was taught proper interviewing skills, how to fill out a job application to get a call back and how to write an effective, stand out resume. Without Strive I would have been making the same mistakes over and over again. Strive taught me that it's more than having a bright, outgoing personality. Strive taught me how to look good in person but also how to look good on paper. Since my graduation, on August 31st, 2012, I found another job not more than a month after putting what Strive taught me to work. And I've been on several interviews and gotten a dozen call backs on companies interested in my resume. I'm not sure how I could have done it without Strive. Strive is an important resource to the community and an outlet for graduates to aid in their search for gainful employment. Without it employment seeking citizens would have nothing to turn to when trying to improve their ways on finding a job they love
