555 charge and the conviction for such imprisonment is reversed on 556 appeal, such person shall be entitled, in any sentence subsequently

829 with a class A, B or C felony or to any person who was twice
830 previously ordered treated under this section, subsection (i) of section
831 17-155y, section 19a-386 or section 21a-284 of the general statutes 832 revised to 1989, or any combination thereof. The court may waive the 833 ineligibility provisions of this subsection for any person.

834 (b) The court may order suspension of prosecution and order

835 treatment for alcohol or drug dependency as provided in this section
836 and sections 17a-697 and 17a-698 if it, after considering information
837 before it concerning the alcohol or drug dependency of the person,

839 section 17a-694, finds that (1) the accused person was an alcohol-840 dependent or drug-dependent person at the time of the crime, (2) the 841 person presently needs and is likely to benefit from treatment for the 842 dependency, and (3) suspension of prosecution will advance the 843 interests of justice. Treatment may begin no earlier than the date the 844 clinical examiner reports under the provisions of section 17a-694 that 845 space is available in a treatment program.

846 (c) A suspension of prosecution ordered under the provisions of 852 any of the conditions specified in subsections (a) and (b) of section 53a-

854 period of suspension. The accused person shall, unless indigent, pay 855 the cost of treatment ordered under this section.

856 (d) If prosecution is suspended under the provisions of subsection
857 (b) of this section, (1) the statute of limitations applicable to the crime 858 charged shall be tolled during the period of suspension, and (2) the 859 accused person shall be deemed to have waived [his] such accused 860 person's right to a speedy trial for the crime charged.

861 (e) The court shall not suspend prosecution under subsection (b) of 862 this section unless (1) the accused person has acknowledged that he or 863 she understands the consequences of the suspension of prosecution, (2) 864 the accused person has given notice, by registered or certified mail on 865 a form prescribed by the Chief Court Administrator, to the victim, if 866 any, of the crime of which the person is accused and of the pending 867 motion for suspension of prosecution, (3) such victim, if [he exists] any,

868 has been given an opportunity to be heard on the motion for 869 suspension of prosecution, and (4) the accused person, unless [he] such 870 accused person is indigent, has paid to the clerk of the court an 871 administration fee of twenty-five dollars.

872 (f) If the prosecution is suspended, the person shall be released on a 873 written promise to appear or on a bond and any other bond posted in 874 any criminal proceeding concerning such person shall be terminated.

875 (g) If the court denies the motion for suspension of prosecution, the 876 state's attorney may proceed with prosecution of the crime.

877 (h) A person shall be deemed to be indigent for the purposes of this 878 section if the court determines the person has an estate insufficient to 879 provide for [his] the person's support or there is no other person
880 legally liable or able to support [him] the person.

881 Sec. 24. (NEW) (Effective from passage) Any child who is arrested and 882 held in a detention center, an alternative detention center or a police 883 station or courthouse lockup prior to the disposition of a juvenile 884 matter shall, if subsequently convicted as delinquent by the Superior 885 Court and sentenced to a period of probation, earn a reduction of such

890 Investigations Committee and the Office of Fiscal Analysis shall 891 review the implementation of this act and measure the effects thereof

893 savings generated and the extent to which such savings are reinvested
894 in improving community safety and ensuring the successful transition 895 of ex-offenders to the community. Not later than January 1, 2006, and 896 January 1, 2008, the committee shall report its findings to the joint

904 plan to reduce by at least twenty per cent the number of incarcerations 905 resulting from technical violations of conditions of probation, which 906 shall include an estimate of the cost of implementation. In the event 907 that funding is provided to the Judicial Branch for this purpose, the 908 Judicial Branch shall implement the plan and shall, not later than 909 August 15, 2005, report to said committees the results of the

919 Department of Correction for this purpose, the Board of Parole and the 920 Department of Correction shall implement the plan and shall, not later 921 than August 15, 2005, report to said committees the results of the 922 implementation of the plan.

924 section 54 of public act 03-1 of the June 30 special session, the 925 Department of Correction shall, not later than October 1, 2004, issue a

929 by a not-for-profit corporation that is exempt from taxation under 930 Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or any 931 subsequent corresponding internal revenue code of the United States,
932 as from time to time amended, and has experience in operating such a 933 facility. Each corporation submitting a proposal in response to such

934 request for proposals must have a site acceptable for use as a 935 Community Justice Center as of the due date for the submission of 936 such proposal.

937 Sec. 28. (NEW) (Effective from passage) (a) The Board of Parole may 938 grant a compassionate parole release to any inmate serving any 939 sentence of imprisonment, except an inmate convicted of a capital
940 felony, as defined in section 53a-54b of the general statutes, if it finds 941 that such inmate (1) is so physically or mentally debilitated, 942 incapacitated or infirm as a result of advanced age or as a result of a 943 condition, disease or syndrome that is not terminal as to be physically
944 incapable of presenting a danger to society, and (2) (A) has served not 945 less than one-half of such inmate's definite or aggregate sentence, or 946 (B) has served not less than one-half of such inmate's remaining 947 definite or aggregate sentence after commutation of the original 948 sentence by the Board of Pardons.

949 (b) Any person granted a compassionate parole release pursuant to 950 this section shall be released subject to such terms and conditions as 951 may be established by the Board of Parole and shall be supervised by 952 the Department of Correction.

957 strategy that provides a continuum of custody, care and control for 958 offenders who are discharged from the custody of the Department of 959 Correction and assists in maintaining the prison population at or 960 under the authorized bed capacity. The reentry strategy shall support 961 the rights of victims, protect the public and promote the successful 962 transition of offenders from incarceration to the community.

963 (b) The success of the reentry strategy shall be measured by: (1) The 964 rates of recidivism and community revictimization, (2) the number of 968 compliance with a discharge plan, (4) prison bed capacity ratios, (5) the 969 adequacy of the network of community-based treatment, vocational, 970 educational, supervision and other services and programs, and (6) the 971 reinvestment of any savings achieved through a reduction in prison

972 population into reentry and community-based services and programs.

973 (c) Not later than January 1, 2005, and annually thereafter, the 974 Department of Correction shall submit a report, in accordance with the

Explanation

Passage of the bill results in significant costs and savings primarily related to increasing the supervision of offenders in the community and decreasing the incarceration of certain offenders. Because annual costs associated with supervising offenders in the community is less expensive than annual incarceration costs, the net impact of the bill would be significant savings. Many of the bill’s provisions seek to increase the pool of those eligible for parole. In addition, the bill establishes various methods of reducing recidivism that would potentially enhance anticipated savings.

The bill makes various policy and statutory changes within the criminal justice system including:

- (1) Creates a new Board of Pardons and Paroles (BPP);
- (2) Modifies standards for special parole, parole releases and eligibility and the administrative parole process;
- (3) Specifies the authority of the Board of Parole and the Department of Correction (DOC) regarding the release of inmates to the community;
- (4) Requires that contracts to send inmates out of state be submitted to the Legislature;

- (5) Increases the daily credit earned by incarcerated inmates toward the payment of a fine or bail;
- (6) Adds the Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services (DMHAS) to the Prison and Jail Overcrowding Commission (PJOC);
- (7) Makes technical changes to provisions and establishes time limitations regarding liens on offenders' inheritances, wages, pensions and property;
- (8) Makes technical adjustments to provisions authorizing the court to divert alcohol- and drug-dependent offenders to treatment programs;
- (9) Establishes pre-trial served credit for juvenile offenders;
- (10) Requires the Legislature to track the bill's results;
- (11) Requires the Judicial Department, DOC, and BPP to develop plans to reduce their technical violators population by 20%;
- (12) Requires DOC request proposals from nonprofit providers for 500-bed Community Justice Center;
- (13) Authorizes "compassionate parole" for certain offenders; and
- (14) Requires various agencies to develop and implement a comprehensive community re-entry strategy for offenders.

FISCAL IMPACT BY SECTION

Section 1 of the bill merges the Board of Pardons and Board of Parole into the new Board of Pardons and Paroles (BPP).¹ The bill provides that the board would consist of a total of 13 members with 8 being assigned to Parole and 5 assigned to Pardons. The bill also requires the BPP chairman to appoint an executive director and that the board conduct pardons hearings at least four times per year. Passage of these provisions would result in costs of $100,000 - $120,000. These costs include $75,000 - $85,000 for an executive director and $25,000 - $35,000 for additional pardons hearings.²

Section 2, which would not result in any fiscal impact, authorizes a name change throughout the statutes from the Board of Pardons or Board of Parole to the new Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Section 3 of the bill does the following: (1) prohibits parole for those convicted of 1st degree aggravated sexual assault;³ (2) permits parole for certain offenders convicted crimes involving firearms w/in 1,500 feet of school; and (3) establishes a conditional parole release policy.⁴ There are currently 300 offenders in DOC custody that have served 75% of their sentence but have yet to be paroled. If these offenders or some portion were granted conditional parole, there would be a savings to DOC offset by the cost of additional community supervision staff. The annual cost per parolee is about $5,000 (including community programming) and the annual cost per DOC inmate is $26,000.⁵ Thus, there is an annual savings of about $20,000 to

² The current Board of Pardons meets twice per year and has a budget of $37,434.

³ There are currently 40 inmates in DOC custody with a primary offense of aggravated sexual assault.

⁴ Under the proposal, inmates eligible for parole after serving 50% of their sentence would be granted a conditional parole release after serving 75% and inmates and inmates eligible for parole after serving 85% of their sentence would be granted a conditional parole release after serving 85%.

⁵ This is based on average parole officer caseload of 60 parolees.

supervise an offender in the community as opposed to incarceration.

The average length of all sentences is about 3 years or 36 months. If 100 offenders were conditionally released to parole after completion of 75% of their sentences, there would be a total savings of 27,400 bed days. The corresponding annual savings would be about $2 million. Similarly, the annual cost to supervise these offenders on parole would be $500,000. Hence, there would be a net savings of $1.5 million.⁶

Implementation of the above proposal depends in part on coordination with the courts, corrections, and parole. In addition, implementation would require the reallocation of some resources to create community-based programs and supervision for the increased numbers of parolees. Furthermore, sustained savings would have to be achieved through the closing of existing facilities.

Section 4 of the bill extends parole to certain offenders (prohibited under current law) including those convicted of manslaughter, 1st degree assault, 1st degree robbery and kidnapping. There are currently about 3,000 offenders (sentenced and unsentenced) in DOC custody that fall into these categories. In addition, the bill permits parole for offenders with more than 3 years remaining on their sentence. To the extent that these provisions result in more offenders being supervised in the community and less incarceration, passage of the bill would result in a net savings.

Section 5, which would not result in any fiscal impact, makes technical adjustments to the special parole laws.

Section 6 of the bill requires the implementation of an administrative hearing process for revocations and rescissions. The Board of Parole takes full panel action on about 2,000 hearings and administratively acts on another 2,000. Approximately, half of the full panel actions involve revocations and rescissions. To the extent that ⁶ Currently, DOC and Parole consider over 3,000 offenders per month for community supervision.

this provision increases the parole grant rate of the board, passage of the bill would result in net savings.⁷

Sections 7 and 8 make technical adjustments to the parole laws that are not anticipated to result in any fiscal impact.

Section 9 authorizes DOC to transfer certain offenders who have been granted parole and are within 18 months of their parole release date to approved community programs and residences. Approximately, 1,400 offenders are released to parole per year. If the time spent in a correctional facility were reduced for these offenders as a result of this provision, net savings would result.

Section 10 authorizes pre-trial release of certain offenders charged with a class D felony or misdemeanor to the community. There are currently 18,700 inmates in DOC custody and 23% are unsentenced. Of these 4,300 offenders, there are 1,200 (sentenced and unsentenced) offenders in DOC custody that meet the specifications of this provision. To the extent that this provision results in more offenders being supervised in the community and less incarceration, passage of the bill would result in a net savings.

Section 11 authorizes DOC to enter into a contract to send an additional 2,000 inmates out of state. Passage of the bill could result in annual significant savings of about $18.25 million. Connecticut currently has a contract with the State of Virginia to house 500 offenders. The cost to house inmates in Virginia is approximately $25/day less than the cost to house these same offenders in state.

Section 12 and 13 increase daily credit earned by inmates toward fines and bail to the average daily cost of incarceration.⁸ The number of offenders that would be impacted by this provision is unknown at this time. However, to the extent that passage of the bill results in ⁷ From February 2003 to February 2004, the average grant rates for full panel hearings and administrative hearings are about 88% and 79% respectively.

⁸ The current average daily cost of incarceration is $75 and current law provides that a person receive $50 per day for time spent in prison.

offenders being released to the community earlier than what the current law provides there would be savings. There are currently 283 offenders serving sentences for fines valued at approximately $233,835. At $50/day, the number of bed days would be about 4,677. At $75/day, the number of bed days would be 3,118 bed days, which is a difference of over 1,559 bed days.⁹

Section 14, which would not result in the need for additional resources, adds DMHAS and the Board of Parole to PJOC.

Section 15 allows the state to place liens on the inheritance assets of persons receiving state aid. Current law provides that 50% of such assets are assignable to the state to recover costs of incarceration. Passage of the bill could result in significant revenue gain.

Sections 16 and 20 make technical changes to provisions regarding disbursement of inmate wages. Passage of these provisions would not result in any fiscal impact.

Sections 17 through 19 and 21 establish certain limits on offenders' property, lawsuit proceeds, inheritances, pensions and estates that the state can place liens on to seek reimbursement for incarceration costs. Passage of the bill would result in a potential revenue loss.

Section 22 allows the court to order suspension of prosecution and treatment for alcohol or drug dependency if the court makes certain findings concerning a defendant (effective July 1, 2004).¹⁰ This option would be available to the court even where a defendant had been ordered to treatment twice prior. This change could divert up to 450 people from prison and into treatment programs annually. The potential state savings from reducing prison admissions under this provision, net treatment and supervision costs described below, is estimated to be greater than $1 million annually beginning in FY 05.

⁹ The average daily inmate cost is $72/day but when fringe benefit and debt service costs are included, the cost rises to $96/day.

¹⁰ The court must find that the accused person was an alcohol-dependent or drug-dependent person at the time of the crime, and the person needs and is likely to benefit from treatment. Prosecution cannot be suspended for a defendant who is charged with a class A, B or C felony, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of drugs or alcohol, or who was twice previously ordered to be treated under CGS Section 17a-696.

Although some or all of these clients may be referred for treatment under DMHAS, it is not known how many of these clients actually will receive services. The DMHAS service system, for both inpatient and outpatient services, is currently operating at capacity, with lengthy waiting lists for services. However, given the current service cost structure, it is likely that DMHAS will incur significant costs for any additional clients who do receive services due to the provisions of this bill. The Judicial Department may also provide for treatment of clients and community supervision under this provision in the bill. Passage of this provision would result in significant costs.

Section 23 provides that any juvenile who is arrested and held at various state-owned and operated or contracted facilities earn a reduction in any subsequent period of probation imposed that is equal to the number of days spent in said facilities. There are approximately 2,500 juveniles on probation on any day. The number of those who were previously held in secure facilities is unknown at this time, but could be substantial. A decrease to the average length of supervision would reduce the caseload of juvenile probation officers and could result in savings for various contracted services.

Section 24 requires the legislature's Program Review and Investigation Committee and Office of Fiscal Analysis to track the outcomes of the bill. Passage of this provision would not result in the need for additional resources.

Section 25 requires the Judicial Branch, the Board of Parole and DOC to develop plans to reduce the number of incarcerations due to technical violations of probation by 20%. Development of these plans that are to include cost estimates would not result in the need for additional resources. It should be noted that about 10% of DOC's sentenced population (2,000 inmates) has an offense status of violation of probation. To the extent that the implementation of the plans reduces the prison population, there would be significant savings.

Section 26 requires DOC to request proposals from nonprofit providers for a 500-bed Community Justice Center in Hartford. To the extent that private for-profit corporations would provide services at a lower rate, passage of this provision would result in costs.

Section 27 authorizes compassionate parole for certain offenders. As this provision is not anticipated to affect many offenders, passage would result in a minimal fiscal impact.

Section 28 requires various agencies to develop and implement comprehensive re-entry strategies. While the precise impact of this provision is uncertain, the implementation of the strategies could result in potential significant costs and savings.

Section 29 authorizes DOC to transfer inmates on work or education release to approved private or community residences after successful participation in a residential program. Passage of this provision is anticipated to have a minimal impact.

Section 30 increases, from 15 to 30 days, the length of time DOC can release an inmate on furlough in certain circumstances. This section is not anticipated to result in any fiscal impact.

Section 31 and 32 repeal certain statutory provisions as relevant to the previous sections of the bill. There is no fiscal impact.

House Amendment "A" makes the following changes: (1) specifies that the Board of Pardons and Paroles (BPP) will be within DOC for administrative purposes only; (2) clarifies the authority and jurisdiction of the BPP and DOC with regard to certain offenders released from confinement; and (3) requires that the Legislative Program Review and Investigation Committee conduct a study on the imposition and impact of mandatory minimum sentences. Passage of the amendment would not result in any fiscal impact.

House Amendment "B" specifies that the state is prohibited from recovering the costs of incarceration from work performed by inmates as part of certain programs during their confinement. Passage of the amendment reduces potential revenue gain.¹¹

House Amendment "C" requires that the Prison and Jail Overcrowding Commission establish a subcommittee on corrections behavioral health composed of the commissioners of Correction and Mental Health and Addiction Services and a representative of the University of Connecticut Health Center. Passage of the amendment would not result in the need for additional resources.

House Amendment "D" eliminates the provision of the bill that allows the court to deviate from the mandatory minimum sentences for certain nonviolent offenses. The fiscal note on the original bill indicated savings from this provision due to a decrease in the number of incarceration bed days.¹² The average daily inmate cost is about $74. Passage of the amendment would reduce the savings in the bill.

¹¹ According to the Attorney General, the state has collected about $2 million in the last 5 years related to recovering prison costs.

¹² About half of the 1,300 inmates currently serving mandatory minimum sentences in the Department of Correction are for nonviolent offenses.

OLR BILL ANALYSIS

sHB 5211 (as amended by House "A", "B", "C", and "D")*

AN ACT CONCERNING PRISON OVERCROWDINGSUMMARY:

This bill combines the Board of Pardons and Board of Parole into the Board of Pardons and Paroles, makes a number of changes related to parole, allows the board and Department of Correction (DOC) to transfer certain inmates to facilities other than prisons under certain circumstances, and alters a number of release provisions that apply to parole and DOC.

The bill removes the court's discretion to depart from a mandatory minimum sentence for certain drug crimes under certain circumstances.

The bill sets rules for Board of Pardons and Paroles membership and hearings, makes the board chairman the executive and administrative head of the board (the DOC commissioner currently heads the Board of Parole), creates an executive director who has many of the responsibilities currently assigned to the DOC commissioner, and requires certain regulations. The bill makes the Board of Pardons and Paroles part of DOC for administrative purposes only, specifies the board's independent decision-making authority, and makes DOC responsible for supervising parolees.

The bill makes a number of changes regarding parole. It:

1. requires a parole hearing for someone who is (a) eligible for release after serving 50% of his sentence but has not been released after serving 75% of his sentence or (b) eligible for release after serving 85% of his sentence when he reaches the 85% mark;
2. changes eligibility for administrative parole;
3. allows the board chairman to transfer inmates granted parole to a halfway house, group home, mental health facility, or an approved community or private residence within 18 months of their parole release date;

4. allows an inmate to receive a compassionate parole release under certain circumstances;
5. requires a board employee to conduct parole revocation and rescission hearings;
6. requires the board chairman and executive director to consult with DOC to develop a parole orientation program;
7. requires the board chairman and executive director to create an incremental sanctions system for parole violations; and
8. requires a hearing on a violation of special parole.

The bill requires development of (1) plans to reduce by at least 20% the number of incarcerations due to technical violations of the conditions of probation or parole and (2) a comprehensive reentry strategy.

The bill requires the board to create an administrative pardons process for certain people.

It makes a number of changes regarding DOC's options with inmates. It:

1. allows DOC, unless the court orders otherwise, to release people charged only with a misdemeanor or most class D felonies who are committed by the court to DOC to a DOC-approved residence;
2. requires DOC to issue a request for proposals for a community justice center in Hartford;
3. authorizes DOC to transfer an inmate on work or education release to an approved community or private residence if he already participated satisfactorily in a residential program;
4. increases, from 15 to 30 days, the length of time DOC can release an inmate on furlough to visit a dying relative, attend a relative's funeral, get otherwise unavailable medical services, contact prospective employers, or for other compelling reasons consistent with rehabilitation; and

5. requires DOC, which is authorized to contract to send an additional 2,000 inmates out-of-state, to submit that contract to the Appropriations and Judiciary committees for review and comment before entering the contract.

The bill also:

1. allows someone to participate in the alcohol and drug dependency diversion program twice, instead of once, if he is otherwise eligible;
2. changes a number of provisions on recovering the costs of an inmate's incarceration, including making additional types of property subject to the state's claim but excluding others such as property acquired for work performed during incarceration as part of a program designated or defined in regulation by DOC as job training, skill development, a career opportunity, or an enhancement program;
3. changes the credit that a person receives toward payment of a fine from $50 a day to the average daily cost of incarceration when he is held (a) only for payment of a fine or (b) in pre-sentence confinement;
4. gives a child arrested and held in a juvenile matter credit toward his probation sentence for time spent in certain facilities;
5. creates a subcommittee on corrections behavioral health in the Prison and Jail Overcrowding Commission (PJOC) and alters the commission membership; and
6. requires studies (a) by the Legislative Program Review and Investigations Committee (LPRIC) and the Office of Fiscal Analysis of the bill's implementation and effects and (b) by LPRIC of the impact and costs of mandatory minimum sentences.

The bill makes a number of other minor and technical changes.

*House Amendment "A" makes the Board of Pardons and Paroles part of DOC for administrative purposes only, specifies the board's independent decision-making authority and makes DOC responsible for supervising parolees, puts parolees under the jurisdiction rather than custody and control of a board panel, requires the board and DOC commissioner to exercise discretion to change the limits of a parolee's residence, sets standards for assessing suitability for parole release at certain required hearings, requires commitment of a parolee to a correctional institution rather than to DOC custody if the board revokes special parole, requires a study of mandatory minimum sentences, specifies that DOC is responsible for supervising parolees and administering the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision , and makes technical changes.

*House Amendment "B" excludes from the state's claim for costs of an inmate's incarceration property acquired for work performed during incarceration as part of a program designated or defined in DOC regulations as job training, skill development, a career opportunity, or an enhancement program.

*House Amendment "C" adds the provision on a behavioral health subcommittee within the PJOC.

*House Amendment "D" deletes provisions allowing departures from certain mandatory minimum sentences and repeals the provisions in current law on departing from mandatory minimum sentences for certain drug crimes.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Upon passage, except the provisions on creating the Board of Pardons and Paroles, administrative pardons regulations, incremental sanctions system, and parole orientation program are effective July 1, 2004.

BOARD OF PARDONS AND PAROLES (§§ 1-2, 32, 33, 35)

Under current law, the Board of Pardons and Board of Parole are part of DOC. The bill combines these boards into the Board of Pardons and Paroles and makes the new board part of DOC for administrative purposes only. It makes DOC responsible for supervising parolees transferred to the new board's jurisdiction. It specifies that DOC is responsible for supervising parolees and administering the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision.

The bill gives the board independent decision-making authority to (1) grant or deny parole or special parole, (2) set parole and special parole supervision conditions, (3) rescind or revoke parole or special parole, and (4) grant releases and commute punishments including the death penalty.

Beginning October 1, 2004, the new board consists of 13 members appointed by the governor with the consent of either house of the General Assembly (under current law, the Board of Parole has 15 members and the Board of Pardons has five members appointed in this manner).

The bill ends the terms of members of the Parole Board on September 30, 2004. New members serve for the length of the governor's term. Under current law, the Parole Board chairman and vice-chairman serve for the length of the governor's term and until a successor is appointed, members serve four-year terms, and Pardons Board members serve six years.

Like the Parole Board members under current law, members of the new board are paid $110 for each day spent performing their duties and receive necessary expenses.

The bill requires the governor to appoint the chairman from among the members. This person must be qualified by education, experience, and training in administering community corrections, parole, or pardons. It requires the chairman to work full time at his duties and be paid as determined by the Department of Administrative Services commissioner. This requirement currently applies to the Parole Board chairman.

The bill makes the new board the successor to the Board of Pardons and Board of Parole, substitutes the new board whenever the others are used in the statutes or 2003 and 2004 public acts, and requires the Legislative Commissioners' Office to make necessary changes.

Hearings

The bill authorizes the chairman to sit on both pardons and parole release panels. He must assign seven members exclusively to parole release hearings and five to pardons hearings. Except for the chairman, no member assigned to one type of hearing can later be assigned to the other.

The bill requires the chairman or his designee and two members to conduct all parole hearings and approve or deny all parole release, revocation, or rescission recommendations from a board employee. Pardons panels consist of three members. The chairman can be one of the members, but he must be on the panel for hearings on commutation of the death penalty.

The bill requires the board to hold a pardons hearing at least every three months. The hearings must be in various geographic areas of the state, and the board cannot hold hearings in or on correctional facility grounds unless solely for the benefit of applicants incarcerated at the time of the hearing.

The bill repeals provisions on appointing members of the Board of Pardons, placing the board in DOC, requiring four out of the five members to approve a decision, authorizing the board to compel the attendance of witnesses, giving the secretary the power to issue process to command DOC officials to bring prisoners before the board, and certain other board procedures.

Chairman

The bill makes the chairman of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, instead of the DOC commissioner, the executive and administrative head of the board and requires him to:

1. oversee the board's administrative affairs;
2. adopt policies for all areas of pardons and paroles, including granting pardons, commutations, or releases including commutations of the death penalty; risk-based structured decision making; and release criteria (current law requires the DOC commissioner to set policies in all areas of parole including decision making, release criteria, and supervision standards);
3. consult with DOC on common issues, including prison overcrowding;
4. consult with the Judicial Branch on common issues, including community supervision; and

5. sign and issue subpoenas to compel witnesses to attend and testify at parole hearings.

Executive Director

The bill requires the chairman to appoint an executive director who has many of the DOC commissioner's current functions. The executive director must:

1. direct and supervise all administrative affairs;
2. prepare the budget and annual operation plan;
3. assign staff to administrative reviews;
4. organize pardons and parole release hearing calendars;
5. implement a uniform case filing and processing system; and
6. create staff and member development, training, and education programs.

Regulations

The bill requires the chairman, in consultation with the executive director, to adopt regulations (1) for parole revocation and rescission hearings that include due process requirements and (2) requiring board members in pardons hearings to issue written statements of the reasons for rejecting a pardon application. The bill requires the chairman to adopt regulations, rather than policy, to administer the Interstate Parole Compact.

MANDATORY MINIMUM SENTENCES (§ 36)

The bill eliminates a court's discretion to depart from a mandatory minimum for good cause under certain circumstances for the following crimes:

1. manufacture or sale of drugs and related crimes (CGS § 21a-278);
2. manufacture or sale of drugs within 1,500 feet of elementary or high schools, public housing, or day care centers (21a-278a(b));

3. use, possession, or delivery of drug paraphernalia within 1,500 feet of a school by a non-student (21a-267(c)); and
4. drug possession within 1,500 feet of a school or day care center (21a-279(d)).

Under current law, the court can depart from the mandatory minimum for these crimes only if it finds that in committing the offense the person (1) did not use or attempt or threaten to use physical force; (2) did not cause physical or serious physical injury to another person; and (3) was unarmed and did not use, display, or represent that he had a deadly weapon (such as a gun or knife) or other instrument that could cause death or serious injury. The court must state in open court the reasons for imposing the sentence and departing from the mandatory minimum and a person can only use this provision once.

PAROLE CHANGES

Parole Supervision and Required Parole Hearings (§ 3)

By law, someone is eligible for parole after serving 50% of his sentence unless he committed (1) a crime where the underlying facts and circumstances involved the use, attempted use, or threatened use of force, which makes him eligible only after serving 85% of the sentence or (2) certain serious crimes that are ineligible for parole.

The bill provides that a parolee on parole is under the board's jurisdiction rather than the board's custody and control. It requires anyone released under this provision to remain under DOC custody and be subject to its supervision during the parole period.

Under current law, a parole order must fix the limits of a parolee's residence but the parole panel has discretion to change it. The bill requires the board and DOC commissioner to jointly exercise this discretion.

The bill requires a hearing to determine the suitability for parole release of inmates (1) who are eligible for parole after serving 50% of their sentences but who have not been released to parole after they have served 75% of their sentences and (2) who are eligible for parole after serving 85% of their sentence when they reach the 85% mark. A board employee or a panel, if the chairman finds it necessary, must base the assessment on whether (1) there is a reasonable probability that the person will refrain from violating the law and (2) the benefits to the person and society resulting from release substantially outweigh the benefits to the person and society from his continued incarceration. The board must state for the record specific reasons why the person and the public would not benefit from the person's parole while transitioning to the community if it requires continued confinement. The board's decision is not appealable.

Administrative Parole Eligibility (§ 4)

The bill makes all inmates subject to the 50% rule eligible for parole without a hearing and excludes all others. By law, under this procedure, a board employee must review the inmate's case and recommend parole, and at least two board members must approve it. The bill:

1. makes all those subject to the 85% rule ineligible,
2. removes the prohibition for using this procedure for inmates who have more than three years left on their sentences, and
3. removes the prohibition for using this procedure for inmates convicted of certain crimes (but many of these crimes are subject to the 85% rule and would remain ineligible for this procedure under the bill).

The crimes are: manslaughter in the 1st degree; manslaughter in the 1st degree with a firearm; manslaughter in the 2nd degree; manslaughter in the 2nd degree with a firearm; manslaughter in the 2nd degree with a motor vehicle; misconduct with a motor vehicle; criminally negligent homicide; 1st degree assault; 1st degree assault of an elderly, blind, disabled, pregnant, or mentally retarded person; 1st degree sexual assault; 1st degree aggravated sexual assault; sexual assault in spousal or cohabiting relationship; kidnapping in the 1st degree; kidnapping in the 1st degree with a firearm; 1st degree robbery; and employing a minor in an obscene performance.

The bill also allows the board's chairman to require a parole hearing if he deems it necessary. As under current law, a hearing must be held at a victim's request.

As under current law, a person with six months or less left in his sentence who agrees to certain conditions under a separate parole eligibility statute can use this procedure.

Transfer to Halfway Houses and Other Facilities (§ 9)

The bill allows the board chairman to transfer inmates granted parole who are within 18 months of their parole release date to a public or private nonprofit halfway house, group home, mental health facility, or approved community or private residence. Someone released under this provision is transferred to the board's jurisdiction but he remains under DOC custody and DOC is responsible for supervising him. He may be returned to confinement in a correctional facility at any time.

Compassionate Parole Release (§ 28)

The bill allows the Board of Parole to grant an inmate, other than one convicted of a capital felony, a compassionate parole release if he:

1. is physically incapable of presenting a danger to society because he is physically or mentally debilitated, incapacitated or infirm because of advanced age, or has a non-terminal condition, disease, or syndrome and
2. has served at least half of his sentence or half of his remaining sentence after the board commuted his original sentence.

A person granted a release is subject to terms and conditions set by the board and is supervised by DOC.

Parole Hearings to Revoke or Rescind Parole (§ 6)

The bill requires a board employee to conduct all parole revocation and rescission hearings. To revoke or rescind parole or special parole, the bill requires the employee to recommend revocation or recession after a hearing and at least two members of a panel must approve it.

Parole Eligibility (§ 3)

The bill allows people convicted of an offense committed with a firearm in, on, or within 1,500 feet of elementary or secondary school grounds to be eligible for parole. (People convicted of these crimes would be subject to the existing parole eligibility requirements and likely would be eligible after serving 85% of their sentence because use of a firearm would be considered use, attempted use, or threatened use of force.) The bill makes someone convicted of 1st degree aggravated sexual assault ineligible for parole.

The bill deletes a requirement that the Board of Parole report monthly to the Office of Policy and Management and the Appropriations, Judiciary, and Public Safety committees on the number of inmates eligible for parole who completed 75% of their sentence in the preceding month and were not approved for parole.

Parole Orientation Program (§ 1(j)(1))

The bill requires the board chairman and executive director, in consultation with DOC, to develop a parole orientation program for inmates eligible for parole when they are transferred to DOC custody. The program must include general legal information and policies on parole release, calculating time served, conditions of release, supervision practices, revocation and rescission policies, and procedures for administrative review and panel hearings. It must include any other relevant information to prepare inmates for parole.

Incremental Sanctions for Parole Violations (§ 1(j)(2))

The bill requires the chairman and executive director to create an incremental sanctions system for parole violations that includes re-incarceration based on the type, severity, and frequency of the violation and specific periods of incarceration for certain violations.

Placement in Any DOC Correctional Institution (§ 8)

The bill allows a paroled inmate returned to DOC custody to be placed in any correctional institution and not just the one he was paroled from. This also applies to someone on special parole.

Special Parole (§ 5)

By law, when a person leaves prison and serves a period of special parole, he is transferred from DOC custody to the jurisdiction of the Parole Board chairman. The bill makes DOC responsible for supervising the person during the special parole period.

Under the bill, when a parole officer determines that someone violated the conditions of his special parole, the board must hold a hearing on the charge without unnecessary delay. The parolee must be told of the manner of the alleged violation and be advised of his due process rights. Once a violation is established, the bill authorizes the board to (1) continue the special parole, (2) modify or enlarge its conditions, or (3) revoke the sentence of special parole.

The bill requires the chairman to issue an order to commit the person to a correctional institution when the board revokes his special parole. The commitment period cannot exceed the unexpired portion of the special parole, and the board can allow the person to be released again on special parole at any time without a court order.

PLANS TO REDUCE INCARCERATION FOR TECHNICAL VIOLATIONS OF CONDITIONS OF PROBATION AND PAROLE (§ 26)

The bill requires:

1. the Judicial Branch to develop a plan to reduce the number of incarcerations due to technical violations of the conditions of probation by at least 20% and
2. the Board of Parole and DOC to develop a plan to reduce the number of incarcerations due to technical violations of the conditions of parole by at least 20%.

The plans must include cost estimates. The Judicial Branch and Parole Board and DOC must submit their plans to the Appropriations and Judiciary committees by October 15, 2004 and, if they receive funding, implement them and report again to the committees by August 15, 2005.

REENTRY STRATEGY (§ 29)

The bill requires the Parole Board, Judicial Branch, and the departments of Correction, Mental Health and Addiction Services, Social Services, and Labor to collaborate to develop and implement a comprehensive reentry strategy. The strategy must:

1. provide a continuum of custody, care, and control for offenders discharged from DOC custody;
2. assist in maintaining the prison population at or below authorized bed capacity;
3. support victims' rights;
4. protect the public; and
5. promote successful transition from incarceration to the community.

The bill requires DOC to report annually on the success of the reentry strategy to the Appropriations, Judiciary, and Public Safety committees beginning January 1, 2005. It requires the strategy's success to be measured by the:

1. recidivism and community re-victimization rates;
2. number of inmates eligible for release on parole, transitional supervision, probation, or other release programs;
3. number of inmates who transition from incarceration to the community complying with a discharge plan;
4. prison bed capacity ratios;
5. adequacy of the network of community-based treatment, vocational, educational, supervision, and other services and programs; and
6. reinvestment of any savings from reducing the prison population into reentry and community-based services and programs.

ADMINISTRATIVE PARDONS REGULATIONS (§ 1(H)(2))

The bill requires the board chairman, in consultation with the executive director, to adopt regulations to establish an administrative pardons process that allows people convicted of a crime to receive a pardon without a hearing, unless a victim requests one, if the person was:

1. convicted of a misdemeanor and (a) it is no longer a crime, (b) he was under age 21 at the time of the conviction and has no convictions during the 10 years before receiving the pardon, or (c) he was convicted before pretrial programs were created that the person would have been eligible for and likely participated in or
2. convicted of (a) illegal manufacture, distribution, sale, prescription, or dispensing drugs; (b) illegal manufacture, distribution, sale, prescription, or dispensing drugs by a non-drug-dependent person; or (c) illegal possession of drugs; and he has no convictions during the five years before receiving the pardon and it is at least five years since the person's conviction and release from prison.

The pretrial programs are the alcohol and drug dependency program, pretrial family violence education program, alternative incarceration program, community service labor program, accelerated rehabilitation, pretrial alcohol education program, pretrial drug education program, and pretrial school violence prevention program.

DOC OPTIONS

Release by DOC of Pre-Conviction Inmates (§ 10)

The bill allows DOC to release people the court commits to its custody to a DOC-approved residence when they are charged only with a misdemeanor or most class D felonies. This provision does not apply to the following class D felonies: 2nd degree assault with a firearm; 2nd degree assault of an elderly, blind, disabled, pregnant, or mentally retarded person (with or without a firearm); 2nd degree assault with a motor vehicle; 3rd degree sexual assault; 4th degree sexual assault when the victim is under age 16; or 1st degree stalking. DOC cannot exercise this authority if the court orders otherwise.

The bill allows DOC to impose conditions on the person's release including participating in a substance abuse treatment program, electronic monitoring, or use of any other monitoring technology or services. The person remains under DOC custody and is supervised by DOC employees. The person can be returned to prison for violating the conditions.

Community Justice Center Request for Proposals (§ 27)

The 2003 budget act (PA 03-1, June 30 Special Session) transfers $2,000,000 from the appropriation to DOC for Personal Services to its appropriation for Community Justice Centers during FY 2004-05.

To implement this provision, the bill requires DOC, by October 1, 2004, to issue a request for proposals for a community justice center in Hartford with at least 500 beds to be operated by a nonprofit corporation that (1) has experience in operating these facilities and (2) is exempt from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Corporations submitting proposals must have an acceptable site for the center as of the due date for submitting proposals.

Work and Education Release (§ 30)

The bill authorizes DOC to transfer an inmate on work or education release to an approved community or private residence if he already participated satisfactorily in a residential program. The law allows DOC to transfer someone to a different correctional institution, public or private nonprofit halfway house, group home, or mental health facility as part of this program. The bill eliminates the requirement that the warden, superintendent, or other person in charge of a facility concur with DOC's decision before transferring a person to that facility. As under current law, a transferred inmate remains under DOC jurisdiction.

Furloughs (§ 31)

The bill increases, from 15 to 30 days, the length of time DOC can release an inmate on furlough to visit a dying relative, attend a relative's funeral, get otherwise unavailable medical services, contact prospective employers, or for other compelling reasons consistent with rehabilitation.

By law, DOC must have a reasonable belief that the inmate will honor the trust, must specifically designate the place to be visited, and prescribe conditions. DOC has discretion to renew a furlough. By law, failure to return from a furlough is 1st degree escape, a class C felony punishable by one to 10 years in prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or both.

Inmates Out-of-State (§ 11)

The law authorizes the DOC commissioner to enter into contracts with government or private vendors to supervise up to 500 inmates out of state and, during the 2003-05 biennium, to enter into contracts with government or private vendors to supervise up to 2,000 additional inmates out of state. The law also authorizes the commissioner to enter into a contract for some or all of the additional 2,000 inmates with the Virginia Department of Corrections (which has an existing contract to supervise 500 inmates) without following the competitive bidding or negotiation requirements.

The bill requires the commissioner to submit the proposed contracts for the additional 2,000 inmates to the Appropriations and Judiciary committees for review and comment before entering the contract.

ELIGIBILITY FOR ALCOHOL AND DRUG DEPENDENCY DIVERSION PROGRAM (§ 23)

The law authorizes courts to order drug or alcohol dependent offenders into treatment in lieu of prosecution or incarceration. Under current law, anyone who was previously ordered treated under this program or under earlier versions of this program is ineligible. The bill instead makes someone ineligible if he twice used one of these programs. As under current law, the court can waive the eligibility rules.

By law, the pretrial diversion aspect of this program covers all drug sale and possession crimes. A person charged with driving under the influence; assault in the second degree with a motor vehicle; or a class A, B, or C felony is not eligible for suspended prosecution and treatment.

RECOVERING COSTS OF INCARCERATIONProperty Subject to Claim (§ 17)

The law gives the state a claim for the costs of an inmate's incarceration on his estate, inheritance, and proceeds won in a lawsuit.

The bill gives the state a claim against any property owned by an inmate except:

1. property that is statutorily exempt from execution to satisfy court

- judgments and exempt property of a farm partnership;
2. money from a contract for reenacting the inmate's violent crime in various media (such as movies and books) or from the expression of the person's thoughts or feelings about the crime which is required to be paid to the Office of Victim Services;
 3. property the inmate acquired after he was released from incarceration; and
 4. property acquired for work performed during incarceration as part of a program designated or defined in regulation by DOC as job training, skill development, a career opportunity, or an enhancement program.

But the state's claim does apply to lottery and pari-mutuel winnings after the person's release from prison; his estate, inheritance, and proceeds won in a law suit after his release from prison; and certain federal, state, or municipal pension, annuity, insurance contracts, and similar items that are for government employee retirement benefits (subject to the rights of an alternate payee under a qualified domestic relations order).

The bill authorizes the attorney general to bring an action to enforce the claim in Superior Court in the Hartford judicial district at the DOC commissioner's request. The action must be brought within two years of the inmate's release from prison or within two years of his death if he dies while in DOC custody. This restriction does not apply to property that is fraudulently concealed.

The bill's provisions on property subject to state claim apply to actions and proceedings pending or commencing on or after its effective date.

Limitation on Claims (§§ 18-19)

The bill limits the state's claim to an inmate's estate, lawsuit proceeds, and inheritance to (1) the estate of someone who dies within 20 years of his release from incarceration, (2) lawsuits brought within 20 years of release, and (3) inheritance received within 20 years of release.

Employment and Services Performed by Inmates (§§ 20, 16)

By law, DOC can allow inmates to participate in a labor program with private industry and work-release and education-release programs. Any compensation inmates earn must be paid to DOC and put into an account for the inmate. The money can be used for one of eight prioritized purposes. The bill changes the eighth priority from paying the inmate's costs of board as determined by the DOC commissioner to the inmate's cost of incarceration as determined by the statutes and regulations. Similarly, it requires a self-employed inmate to pay the costs of incarceration rather than the costs of his board.

By law, compensation rates are set for services performed by inmates for the state. The money they earn is paid to them on discharge unless the prison warden or administrator pays it for one of nine prioritized purposes. The bill changes the eighth priority from paying the inmate's costs of board as determined by the DOC commissioner to the inmate's cost of incarceration as determined by the statutes and regulations.

CREDIT FOR FINES (§§ 12-13)

The bill changes the credit that a person receives for time spent in prison for a crime when he is held in prison only for payment of a fine. It changes the credit from $50 a day to a rate equal to the average daily cost of incarceration, as determined by the DOC commissioner. By law, the person is released when the amount of the credit equals the amount of the fine.

The bill changes the credit that a person receives for time spent in pre-sentence confinement (confinement by order or because he was denied or could not obtain bail) toward payment of a fine imposed after conviction. The bill changes the credit from $50 per day to a rate equal to the average daily cost of incarceration, as determined by the DOC commissioner.

JUVENILES' CREDIT FOR PRE-SENTENCE CONFINEMENT (§ 24)

The bill gives a child arrested and held in certain facilities before disposition of his juvenile matter, credit toward his period of probation (including any extensions) for each day spent in the facility if he is later sentenced to probation after conviction as a delinquent in Superior Court. This applies to time spent in a detention center, alternative detention center, police station, or courthouse lock-up.

OTHER PROVISIONS

Prison and Jail Overcrowding Commission (§§ 14, 34)

The bill adds the Mental Health and Addiction Services (DMHAS) commissioner, or his designee, to the membership of the Commission on Prison and Jail Overcrowding. It also adds the Board of Parole chairman, or his designee, to the commission. The Board of Pardons and Paroles chairman becomes a member when that board is created. The bill also allows the DOC and Public Safety commissioners to designate someone to serve in their place on the commission.

As under current law, the commission also consists of the chief court administrator (or his designee), chief state's attorney (or his designee), chief public defender (or his designee), Court Support Services executive director or another designee of the chief court administrator, and the following gubernatorial appointments: three government officials, a police chief, two people representing offender and victim services in the private community, and two members of the public.

The bill requires the commission to establish a subcommittee on corrections behavioral health to make recommendations on providing behavioral health services to inmates. Claims on Inheritance for State Aid (§ 15)

By law, when a beneficiary of aid under the State Supplement, Medical Assistance, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Temporary Family Assistance, or State Administered General Assistance programs receives an inheritance, 50% of the assets payable to the beneficiary up to the amount of the assistance paid is assignable to the state.

The bill also gives the state a lien on the assets. As with assignments, the bill requires the probate court to accept notice of the lien if the Department of Administrative Services commissioner files it with the court before distributing the inheritance and the court distributes assets accordingly.

Required Studies (§§ 22, 25)

The bill requires the Legislative Program Review and Investigations Committee (LPRIC) and Office of Fiscal Analysis to review the bill's implementation and measure its effects. This includes studying the (1) effect on the prison population and (2) cost savings and the extent they are reinvested in improving community safety and ensuring successful transition of ex-offenders to the community. The committee must report its findings to the Appropriations and Judiciary committees by January 1, 2006 and 2008.

The bill also requires the LPRIC to study the:

1. impact of laws requiring mandatory minimum sentences on the demand for prison beds,
2. actual versus intended impact of mandatory minimum sentences on the state's overall sentencing policy, and
3. estimated cost of mandatory minimum sentences and proposed sentencing changes.

LPRIC must submit its findings and recommendations to the Judiciary Committee by January 1, 2006.
