

State of Connecticut
GENERAL ASSEMBLY

COMMISSION ON CHILDREN

Public Health Committee
Public Hearing
March, 3, 2008

Testimony Submitted by Elizabeth C. Brown

The University of Connecticut is contracted with the Department of Social Services to track teen pregnancy and prevention efforts. The focus is on evaluation and research of what are the most effective programs.

The following town have the highest percentage of teen pregnancy and the starred cities have DSS funded programs that are researched based, Correria or Service Learning model.

- *1. Hartford
- *2. Bridgeport
- *3. New Britain
- *4. Windham/Willimantic
- *5. Waterbury
- *6. New Haven
- *7. Meriden
- *8. Norwich
- 9. East Hartford
- *10. New London
- 11. Ansonia
- *12. Killingly