AN ACT CONCERNING STATE SERVICE RETIREMENT CREDIT

Mark DeCaprio written testimony

March 2, 2010

Dear Labor Committee Members,

Thank you for taking the time to hear and consider including an amendment to Raised HB 5203. I am requesting that legislation be created that would allow staff members who currently serve in the small group within DEP Emergency Response and Spill Prevention Division's Emergency Response Unit to retain their hazardous duty retirement benefit when promoted into the Assistant Director or Director managerial positions.

I have worked for the Department of Environmental Protection's Emergency Spill Response program since 1986. Prior to working at DEP, I served in the US Navy Submarine Service and later attended undergraduate college at Eastern Connecticut State University where I studied biology & chemistry, and later graduated with a Master of Public Health from the University of Connecticut.

While serving at DEP, I came up through the ranks and was promoted into management as a "leadership apprentice" in 1998. I was the first and the last person to date from the Emergency Response program that had the hazardous duty retirement benefit to make this transition into management. Taking the above management position meant I had to give up the Tier 2 hazardous duty (HD) retirement benefit. I still took the promotion, as I thought I could better serve the agency and our state in this new position. With that said, and as a new manager, I believed in my heart that this request to retain the hazardous duty benefit would be given fair consideration for future inclusion and would be granted based on merit when considering the type of work that is done on a day to day basis.

Due to very small size of the ERU, which currently has two emergency response coordinator supervisors and ten emergency response coordinators, this unit reports directly to me and I often act in an on-site managerial and supervisory capacity responding as required. Due to attrition over the past 10+ years, the size of the ERU has shrunk by almost 50% since the mid 1990's. Also, since we have lost an additional number of staff due to the most recent Retirement Incentive Plan (RIP), it has become necessary that I currently serve in the after-hours ON-CALL roster as the ON-CALL Supervisor 20% of the time 24/7. It is the policy of the ERU that the ON-CALL Supervisor must also be ready to respond to any environmental emergency that might occur. Historically, managers from ERU have always served as backup supervisor / responder as needed, but with the latest RIP, this situation has become exasperated.

Enclosed are three different letters from the current and past two DEP Commissioners requesting these positions be included in the hazardous duty retirement system. The commissioners letters help describe the expectations placed on division managers in this small unit. Managers also authorize the spending from the state spill fund for emergency response removals and cleanups as required. This is a critical point, in that, having knowledgeable individuals in these positions can help the state use these funds in the most efficient way, potentially saving thousands of dollars on a single incident. Also, succession of qualified trained employees is very important, because we want our most knowledgeable employees to represent the state and department during a crisis that could impact our state.

As already stated, non-managerial responder staff are all eligible for the HD retirement, the current situation poses a significant disincentive for staff to take on the managerial role because they can not retain this HD benefit. In recent years, when there was an opening, no one from ERU even applied for the Assistant Director position because of this very issue. Within the last two weeks, no one from ERU applied for an open supervisor position. The fact that we have to have managers serving in a supervisory role, exposed to the same risks and hazards, doing the same necessary work is something that should be rectified. I am hopeful that legislation could be passed to correct this situation. It would be good for the moral of staff that sacrifice so much 24/7, routinely take time away from their families, and work in very hazardous work areas and conditions to be able to have a path of advancement within the ranks to be tomorrow's leaders in the Emergency Response and Spill Prevention Division. Thank you for your time and consideration in this very significant operational matter.

Respectfully submitted,

Mark DeCaprio 3/2/10

Summary of Hazardous Duty Appendix Data Base by Job Classification

This document is currently online through the DAS website at <http://www.osc.state.ct.us/rbsd/hazduty/classtitle.asp>. As best as I can tell reviewing this document there are the following number of job classifications in hazardous duty. My understanding is that those job classifications with Bargaining Unit #'s (01, 02, 03, &52) are managerial job classifications. These managers have likely been included in this designation due to the fact they must have similar hazards as the staff they manage and supervise. It is unclear to me how many positions are in each of these classifications.

Those Managerial Classification Titles with different classification codes in all departments included in HD: 68 Managerial Job Classification Titles

Those Job Classifications that are or have been included on the Hazardous Duty Appendix for all jobs is 593 different job classification titles. Again, this listing does not reflect the number of employees in each classification code.

Please refer to the last section of this packet.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

December 28, 2009

The Honorable Brenda Sisco
Commissioner
Department of Administrative Services
State Office Building
165 Capitol Avenue
Hartford, CT 06106

Dear Commissioner Sisco,

In 1998 and 2006 DEP Commissioners Arthur Rocque and Gina McCarthy requested DAS consider the positions of Assistant Director and Director of the Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division, since renamed the Emergency Response and Spill Prevention Division (ERSPD), be included in the Hazardous Duty Retirement Program. Unfortunately, both prior DEP Commissioner requests for these positions to be included in the above program were not granted. I am requesting this matter be reviewed again, considering the following justification. To clarify further, I am requesting employees, who are promoted into ERSPD management positions from the DEP's emergency response program, be granted the option to maintain the same retirement benefit they had while serving in their staff positions.

The DEP ERSPD's Emergency Response Unit (ERU) is charged with protecting the general public and the environment in the event of emergencies resulting from the discharge, spillage, uncontrolled loss, seepage or filtration of substances, hazardous materials or materials or wastes and responds to all types of environmental and public health emergencies involving accidental and sometimes deliberate releases of hazardous chemicals, oil, sewage, biological agents up to and including those materials used for weapons of mass destruction. Members of this unit have specialized training and expertise and provided a key role and a critical public safety - homeland security service for our state. This small unit has its members on call 24/7, 365 days a year.

Historically and currently, managers from this program have had emergency response site involvement for the more serious or complex incidents that have occurred in Connecticut. These managers have also responded as needed for other types of incidents due to manpower issues. Over the last years this specialized unit of emergency responders has shrunk down to almost half the size it was since the mid-1990s. Since the Retirement Incentive Program this year, the ERU is operating with even less resources and the division director that directly oversees this program is performing supervisory and response duties during and after normal business hours. It has also become necessary that the ERSPD director serve on the unit's afterhour's on-call rotation schedule and routinely fill in for the emergency response supervisors that cannot work due to illness or some other reason. The division director continues to be certified as a Hazardous Materials Technician and Incident Commander so that our actions and overall responses are carried out safely and in conformance with applicable OSHA safety requirements.

The manager positions are not merely administrative in nature. As noted herein, direct involvement by ERU managers is fairly routine and on-site response activities can range from several times a month to more frequently depending on staff availability. Similar to our Law Enforcement Division director position (which is eligible for hazardous duty benefits), the ERU director has been and continues to be on the front line for hazardous material emergencies with all the associated hazards and I feel that it is appropriate to allow members that are promoted from the ERU to managerial positions to have the option to retain this benefit.

It is also worth mentioning that management succession in the division is likely to be adversely affected by the inability to participate in the Hazardous Duty Retirement program. The managers in the ERU have typically come up through the ranks and we have been fortunate to have longevity in our ERU management. But based on informal discussions with ERU staff, these individuals are not interested in these managerial positions because of the fact they will have to leave the Hazardous Duty Retirement program. Leaving the situation unchanged as it is virtually eliminates a pool of qualified staff with the hands-on field experience that we really want for these positions in the future.

One of my last points is that as you are aware, Connecticut continues to strive to improve its homeland security capability and the director of the ERU has been an active in this effort. The director has been a valuable resource in the planning and exercise process along with providing support and participation for actual emergency incidents that have occurred. Past and current Department of Emergency Management and Homeland Security (DEMHS) commissioners could verify that this individual plays a valuable role for homeland security and for the protection of our citizens.

In conclusion, I am requesting that serious consideration be given for the inclusion of both ERSPD management positions into this retirement program. This action would allow emergency responder staff that might consider promotion in the division to retain and maintain their retirement benefit. Utilizing some form of the suggested guidelines submitted to DAS by Commissioner McCarthy with her 2006 letter (see enclosed) might be one approach that will allow us to do this. I believe the attachment sent by Commissioner McCarthy provides reasonable criteria and addresses prior concerns that have been raised by your department. I believe granting this request will not only be good for positive succession of outstanding employees, but also will potentially save our state tax dollars because we will have experienced knowledgeable individuals in these leadership positions that also routinely make significant financial decisions for site activities. If you find that you are unable to grant inclusion for both positions at this time, I would urge that we at least include the current director in this program as he continues to do this necessary work for the state. Please let me know if we can provide you with any additional information or answer any questions regarding this request. Thank you for your consideration.

Yours truly,

Amy Marrella,
Commissioner

Dear Commissioner Yelmini:

In 1998, the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) submitted a request to the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) that the positions of Assistant Director and Director of the Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division, since renamed the Emergency Response and Spill Prevention Division (ERSPD) of the Bureau of Waste Management be included in the Hazardous Duty Retirement Program. Unfortunately, this request to include these two management positions in the program was never granted. I write today asking you to reconsider that request based on the following justification.

The DEP ERSPD's Emergency Response Unit (ERU) operates in the same fashion as a fire department and responds to all types of environmental and public health emergencies involving accidental and sometimes deliberate releases of hazardous chemicals, oil, sewage, biological agents and weapons of mass destruction. Members of this unit are on call twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week. Since the Early Retirement Incentive Program in 2003, this division has been operating without an Assistant Director, and we have only recently filled that position.

Due to the public health implications and the potential environmental impacts, it is not unusual for this division's response to an emergency to require the on-site presence of a division manager. On many of the larger, more significant incidents described below, it is my expectation that a member of management will be on-scene for such incidents to serve as state on-scene coordinator or state incident commander. More recent incidents of this type include the explosion and chemical release that resulted at the Pfizer facility, the I-95 overpass fire in Bridgeport, the chemical fire that occurred at Naamco in Manchester, the mill fire in Plainfield, the gasoline tanker on RT8 in Ridgefield and the barge spill of gasoline into New Haven Harbor. These are the types of incidents that can disrupt an entire region and have statewide significance and interest.

At times managers must perform on-site supervisory duties including when supervisors are unavailable (e.g., illness, scheduled time off, responding to another incident), when the magnitude of the incident warrants it, and there is a need to communicate face-to-face with other state, federal or regional agencies.

Over the last two years, the state has taken significant steps to improve its homeland security capability and managers in DEP's ERU have helped with these initiatives both in the planning phases and with the actual response to incidents that have occurred in the state. At times, the urgency of a situation demands that communication with the highest levels of the division take place at the site in order to ensure that public health, safety and the environment are adequately protected. In addition, the managers of this division often assume the incident command role for significant emergencies.

Barbara Waters, Commissioner
Department of Administrative Services
165 Capitol Avenue
Hartford, CT 06106

Dear Commissioner Waters,

I am writing to request that the Assistant Director and Director of the DEP Waste Management Bureau's Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division (OCSR) be included in the Hazardous Duty Retirement Program. At this time, only the bargaining unit staff assigned to the division are authorized to receive hazardous duty retirement benefits.

The division is composed of Emergency Response Coordinators who all participate in the Hazardous Duty Retirement Program. Including both the OCSR Director and Assistant Director would create agency consistency both within the division and with the Director of the DEP Law Enforcement Division, which was recently made eligible for hazardous duty retirement benefits.

The OCSR operates in a similar fashion to a fire department. Personnel from this division respond to all of the many types of spill emergencies, wear chemical protective equipment and clothing, fire fighting clothing, and are the front line for the State Of Connecticut for all hazardous material emergencies. Our managers in this division assume the incident command role on large spill emergencies.

It is my feeling that the managers serving in this division should be eligible for this benefit and should be given the same consideration as other classifications listed in Management personnel Policy No. 89-3. In this Department, our directors and assistant directors are assigned E.P. Division Director and E.P. Assistant Division Director generic classifications. In the case of the Director of Law Enforcement, inclusion in the Hazardous Duty Retirement Program was granted only to the E.P. Division Director serving in the capacity of Director of Law Enforcement. I would recommend and request that the same approach be applied to the Assistant Director and Director positions for the DEP's OCSR.

We will be happy to provide you with any additional information you need to make a determination regarding this request. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Arthur J. Rocque, Jr.
Commissioner

BUREAU OF WASTE MANAGEMENT
OIL AND CHEMICAL SPILL RESPONSE DIVISION

MEMORANDUM

To: Diane B. Ragali, Personnel Officer II
DEP Human Resources

From: William Hegener, Director OCSR WH

Date: January 7, 1999

Subject: Request for hazardous duty retirement designation for EP Division Director and EP Division Assistant Director for the Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division

This is in response to your questions concerning response activities of the Director and Assistant Director of the Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division.

1. The frequency of responses is very variable and relates to the nature of the incident, supervisory response staff availability, and to other commitments that the managers may have to fulfill. Realistically it could range from several times a week to several times a month. It is estimated that the Acting Assistant Director has responded to and had field involvement at approximately forty incidents and sites since his appointment in April 1998 and responded daily for the four months prior. The Director has responded to about ten incidents and sites during the past year.
2. There are numerous reasons for management responses to incidents and cleanup sites. Because the Division is relatively small [presently 18 ERCs including managers] to provide statewide responses 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, there are times when sufficient supervisory staff are unavailable. This could be due to supervisors being tied up on another incident or scheduled off or illness. If the incident warrants supervisory oversight, then a manager will respond and assume the supervisory role or function as Incident Commander under the ICS. Since the managers are certified as Hazmat Technicians and Incident Commanders, this allows the operations to be carried out in an OSHA compliant manner. The Assistant Director can [and has made] make entries including Level A, it would be more likely that he would serve as a backup on a two in, two out situation. The manager involved in a serious incident would also deal with media inquiries on site and coordinate with the DEP Communications Division. The manager would also handle on scene coordination with Federal Agencies, other state agencies and local officials. To provide an example, there were fifty agencies involved in the recent Acrolein release on board a Russian freighter in New Haven. Finally, there is a need for managers to respond on occasion to assure that Departmental policy and Division operational procedures are being adhered to [accountability, ICS, OSHA compliance, notifications, etc.].

3. In general Oil and Chemical Spill Response Division Managers make an effort to respond to all significant chemical and petroleum releases and to other releases as conditions and circumstances may dictate that a response is required or prudent. The roles would vary depending on the nature of the incident. A prime example would be responses to sites where the responsible party is unknown or refuses to accept financial responsibility and large expenditures from the Connecticut Emergency Spill Account are anticipated. Proper coordination with Federal On scene Coordinators and the gathering and preservation of evidence are critical to DEP cost recovery and enforcement efforts and should be coordinated at the scene at the time of the response. A number of other examples of activities have been provided. Mark DeCaprio and I will be available to meet with you to provide additional information as required.

Enclosure

The following are some sites where managers from the OCSRDR had responded last year:

March 1998 Connecticut Valley Hospital Middletown, CT

Responded to a #6 oil spill from Underground Storage Tank. Surface waters, vegetation, and private properties impacted and municipal potable water wells threatened.

May 1998 Millbrook Condominiums Julia Court East Windsor, CT

Numerous site visits were made in May during this incident. Soils contaminated with dieldrin were excavated and removed. This work was funded out of the Connecticut Spill Account. This was a sensitive case for the DEP as there were numerous environmental, health and safety and legal issues involved. The OCSRDR Assistant Director directly monitored this case.

April 1998 Environmental Waste Recovery (EWR) Waterbury, CT

The EWR facility had been abandoned and represented a public safety and environmental hazard to residents and those companies near this facility.

Site visit was made to check the progress on a State Of Connecticut directed removal of hundreds of drums of hazardous chemical wastes. Pallets of dry chemicals, contaminated soil, and crushed 55-gallon drums and other debris were deposited into approximately sixty-eight roll off containers (twenty cubic yard containers) for proper disposal.

June 1998 Judicial Building Capitol Avenue Hartford, CT

Responded with two Emergency Response Coordinators and met Deputy Chief Ericson from the Hartford Fire Department for an evacuated building due to an unknown chemical release. A hands on response with personal protective equipment and metering devices were utilized to determine the hazard associated with this evacuated building.

November 1998 Russian Vessel: Atoll Atlantic
New Haven Terminal 100 Waterfront Street New Haven, CT

Responded to this vessel which had leaked ACROLEIN below decks. This chemical is a classified poison and it is flammable. Mitigation and cleanup was complex and demanding. Numerous agencies were involved.

HB-5117

AN ACT CONCERNING HAZARDOUS DUTY RETIREMENT CREDIT FOR THE DIRECTOR AND ASSISTANT DIRECTORS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION EMERGENCY RESPONSE AND SPILL PREVENTION DIVISION.

OFA Fiscal Note

State Impact:

Agency Affected	Fund-Effect	FY 09 $	FY 10 $
State Comptroller - state employees retirement system	Various - Cost	See Below	See Below

Municipal Impact: None

Explanation

The bill gives hazardous duty status to two positions within the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). Under the state employees retirement system (SERS) hazardous duty benefits are more liberal and therefore more costly than normal retirement benefits.

According to the most recent valuation, the SERS normal cost as percent of payroll is 9.46% for Tier II regular employees and 18.03% for Tier II hazardous duty. The annual salaries for these two DEP positions are $233,000. The normal cost for these positions under regular retirement is currently $22,000 per year and would be $42,000 per year under hazardous duty. Including these two positions in hazardous duty results in an increased state pension cost of approximately $20,000 annually.

The Out Years

The annualized ongoing fiscal impact identified above would continue into the future subject to inflation.
