

Although I feel tougher restriction on these highly polluting wood furnace/ boilers are long overdue. I feel they fall short. With all the government regulation and taxes that families pay to own a home in our state. At a minimum the State should not allow people to lose the right to use and enjoy their property they worked for, get sick from concentrated emissions polluting their property and be forced to move. The main focus should be on helping those families being affected. Clearly with all the complaints, these folks are not getting helped. My question is why and how can we fix it. Bickering over if someone should be allowed to fill their neighbor's property with smoke for 7 ½ months of the year or all year is nonsense.

Fix the problem of nuisance complaints first and seasonal limits second! It appears that this issue is not going away and in my opinion getting worse, I question will we get some progress this session or will the issue be back to visit us yet another session.

George Forcino