

I will keep my comment short and sweet. If any of these are ready aloud during the meeting - Read this one.

No Sunday Hunting - is completely unconstitutional on too many levels to mention. This is simply Nutmeg State left-over BLUE LAW BS.
Something legal 6 days a week can't be illegal one day a week. PERIOD.

Look around the country - almost all states allow Sunday hunting except for the Northeast, still suffering from 400 year old laws written to make people go to church.

If the Government in CT can allowed Liquor sales on Sunday and shopping, and all the other exceptions it has already made to those same Blue Laws - Surely it's time for this antiquated dried up old law to be erased from the pages forever...and for all hunting. If it's bow only and private land only - it would still be gravely disappointing.

Sincerely,
Walt Charczynski
