George Marinelli,

Not to beat a dead horse, but 99% of the problems with last weeks gun control debate and now gun control laws directed at the Law-Abiding Citizen is that the true culprits are the convicted felons, and to have something like an earned credit that prevents them from serving out a complete sentence is shameful. We put the bad guys in prison because they continue to break all of our laws. Mandatory sentences for crimes in this state are a joke because of this earned credit program, and last year that was proven again in Meriden with an early release convict killing a convenience store owner...and the viciousness of his killing was he got everything he demanded and killed the store owner anyway. Mr. Marinelli these early release earned credits make it easy for the predators like that to make us all victims in Connecticut. So in closing I'm for Senate Bill 123 to Repeal the risk reduction credit program.

Sincerely
