

Sutherland SB 374

In a home-education environment the parents are always evaluating their child and will seek outside assistance as needed. It is not the place of a 'professional' to be involved or be making decisions.

In the case of a public educated child it is the place of the teachers and counselors to be evaluating a child at all times. They will seek help if needed -- and in that situation it should not be just 3 times in their educational process but ongoing. This should be a school policy/choice.
