

CT has the national spotlight and needs to set the tone in this national debate. Laws will not solve violence in America, but much stricter control on the instruments of violence is simply rational and long overdue. Let's stop kowtowing to the financial interests of the NRA and gun rights folk who have confused the second amendment's original intent and have conflated their ideas of freedom into a symbolic, paranoid stance around a piece of metal.

Peace and the effort for peace require vigilance and strength.

Let's act enlightened and err on the side of people, children, and ideals...not lobbyists and not machinery built for the purpose of death.
