Subject: Testimony on Bill #6050

In reference to Bill #6050.

Tolls near state lines are another tax and a bad idea.

Tolls near state lines are the first and last impression drivers will get and keep of Connecticut.

Tolls near state lines will be a reminder of the tragic accidents that can occur near these tolls stations.

Tolls near state lines would require the building of a state bureaucracy to administer.

Tolls near state lines would require a upfront funding and bonding, another expense the state can't afford and can't administer.

Tolls near state lines would impede interstate and intrastate commerce by adding cost to the transportation of goods.

Tolls near state lines does not improve quality of life for Connecticut residents.

Tolls near state lines would create unintended consequence of decisions having nothing to do transportation.

Tolls near state lines or tolls on any highway are counter productive and wasteful in that they hinder traffic and present safety issues.

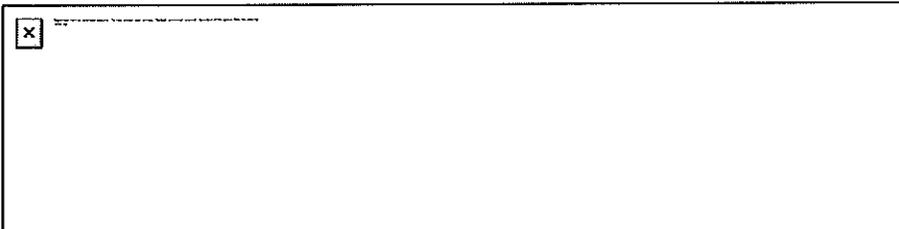

Tolls near state lines tools are a bad idea that we retired after the 1983 tragedy.

Please spend your time in solving problems not creating them.

Thank you.
