

Dir Sirs/Madams:

It has just come to my attention that laws may be passed which allow for boating and hunting safety training to be done ON-LINE. I am appalled that this is even under consideration!

Both hunting and boating can be extremely dangerous activities, and education of participants should be undertaken with the utmost seriousness, and with maximum safeguards put into place by our lawmakers. It is your responsibility to make sure that education in these activities is thorough, and with no opportunity for short-cuts, fraud or dishonesty. It is impossible to meet these responsibilities by offering safety training on-line.

Please do the responsible thing and do NOT allow the safety of participants and bystanders, many of whom will be CHILDREN, to be compromised by allowing for on-line safety training. Accountability must begin somewhere, and here, it is with the lawmakers!

Sincerely,
Patricia Agosta
