

If a moratorium of CCSS is all we can accomplish at this time, then I am certainly in favor of doing so. By signing on to the Common Core State Standards our Governor has, single handedly, annulled any say of our parents and teachers, and even Boards of Ed, in the education of our children. Instead, he has given it over to the un-elected NGA Center for Best Practices, and the Council of Chief State School Officers. David Coleman, the president of the College Board, which has designed the SAT tests, and now will design a test to align with the CCSS, is said to be the principal architect of CCSS.

And they have even copyrighted the Standards, so they cannot be changed!!

This is reminiscent of Soviet Russia, Nazi Germany and Communist China, where the children are taught to betray their parents.
