

Dear Legislatures,

I am a former Ace Oil prepaid customer and now currently have prepaid oil with Roman Oil Company. I believe prepay programs are good programs and it is the only way to do it. It allows me the piece of mind of not worrying about the price oil during the winter months. I use my credit card to purchase my prepay oil and feel it provides adequate security.

If you force oil companies to secure a bond to secure prepay then I would not be able to participate in the prepay program due to the rise in cost. Please do not create laws that will not be enforced thus adding no more protection for me as the consumer. I am asking you to enforce the laws you currently have and make people aware that buying prepay on a credit card is a safer option.

Thank you,
