To Whom It May Concern:

Roman Oil Company contacted me today to hear my opinion of prepay oil contracts. They know that I lost money from Ace Oil when they went out of business and wanted to know my reasoning behind signing up for a prepay contract with them after what happened with Ace.

My reasoning is simple, it helps me save money. On the 500 gallons I bought with Roman Oil, I have the potential to save over $100 this year. I know that Roman Oil Company is a trusted company who follows the laws and has good business practices. The State should find a way to enforce those existing laws and protect against a company that may not be following them. To add new laws would not be wise and would not protect the consumer any more than the existing laws protect them now.

I do not want to have to pay a higher price for my oil when there are already laws that are supposed to protect me. Please find a way to enforce the laws that are already in place.

Sincerely,

Ralph Samoncik
