I support a raise in the minimum wage. We are not asking for much here. My son worked at Chipotle (where the food is non GMO) he was responsible for all the protein that came out of the kitchen on his shift. He was always exhausted, cut up and dirty.

He is now an apprentice electrician getting paid much better and does not have to work as hard and is as stressed. I was required to pay a little more than minimum at Healthbridge Management to my staff who had B.S. degrees because the job market was tight. I felt awful, they all had 2 jobs.
