

Right now some people suffering from terminal diseases and unbearable pain choose to end their suffering the only way that they can—they refuse food and water. They decide to take greater control of life at the end of life. And why not?

An alternative to starvation exists in HB 5326 - An Act Concerning Compassionate Aid in Dying for the Terminally Ill. It's not for everyone. But it should be available for those who, after thoughtful reflection and medical consultation, decide to exercise their free-will to end their own life.
