

Peter Troetti

HB 5326

Physician assisted suicide is morally wrong. It is not our decision to determine when we should die. It is decided by a Supreme Being when our time has come.

The fact that physicians are making this decision appears to be unethical. I was always under the impression that as part of the "Hippocratic Oath" was to save lives, not take them.

So, I ask how can one take an oath to do one thing and do something else that goes against that oath?

I am totally against this.

Peter Troetti
Danbury, CT