

Neeley, Nick

From: John <sjogrenemail@gmail.com>
Sent: Monday, February 24, 2014 11:38 AM
To: Neeley, Nick
Subject: Road de-icing

Sent from my iPhone

It's pick your poison. The sand mix causes chips which leads to body panels rotting out. The liquid sodium chloride rusts the exhaust system and some electrical connections. Personally ...I prefer the liquid sodium chloride. If you wash your vehicle (especially the undercarriage) the damage is almost nonexistent Also...do not keep you car in a heated garage in the winter. The heat greatly increases the salt's corrosive properties.