I am concerned with the product being used to deal with icing on the highways in the state and the damages being done to cars. I recently had a minor accident that caused damage to the steering on my car. When it was towed to the garage for service, not only was the steering involved but the carriage frame holding the motor in place was rotted out and also the lines going to the transmission were showing rot . At the suggestion of the garage, I also had front brakes replaced.

As I have been reading about damages done by the solutions used on the highway. I am sure that some of the damage to my vehicle is related to this product. I have also seen that it is suggested that the vehicles under carriage should be cleaned after storms and exposure to the product. Living I the Quiet Corner and on a fixed income this becomes a task that I can ill afford.
