

Gov. Malloy intends to eliminate the budget for the STRIVE job training program run across the state by Career Resources, Inc.

STRIVE programs have been in CT since 1998 in Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and Norwalk/ Stamford. They have graduated well over 5K participants, turning previously unemployed minorities into tax paying citizens.

STRIVE programs are one of the highest ROI educational programs for the state of CT. They have be consistently recognized as major resources for education and economic development, including numerous trips to WDC and the White House.

We hope you will look into why maintaining STRIVE/ Career Resources programs are critical in helping solve the CT employment and social needs of those served.

Thank you,
