

I am opposed to the passage of HB 7054. It is a terrible way to raise revenue for the State because it attracts many people who can least afford to lose money gambling. It also tends to attract some whose motivations may be less than honorable.

We have enough issues with the casinos already operating in CT. Permitting other forms of gambling is not in the best interest of our citizens.

Another more novel approach to reducing the deficit - cut spending! Has anyone in Hartford thought about that?
