

Franklin E Rutledge
Bristol, CT

Life is not death. Death is what we fight against. If death is what we are seeking, then the nuclear arms race would not have request limitation. If the government understands this key principal, why would those leaders of government vote to destroy life? Suicide is illegal, because it is murder. Assisting in this illegal practice is murdering or being a compliance to the murder. Are we willing to take such a bold step to change the entire Judicial System to protect a murder that assist a mentally challenged person in taking their own life? Or who is to say that one will not kill someone and claim the person wanted to end their life and they assisted them.

Let's look at the love of money. A person knows that they are in the will of a rich relative. The relative is gravely ill. Many have recovered from being gravely ill. So, the person in the will is saying, I need the money now. Let's kill them with the help of the doctors. Have we become so inhumane that life is not important? Have we lost the ability to weep over the demise of a love one, because we have lost our love to care for the hurting? If we vote to approve Assisted Suicide, we need to close all the specialty hospitals, close St Jude and Shriner's Hospitals, stop all the cancer research, stop marching for breast cancer and brain tumors.

Hope is what tomorrow is about. Tomorrow there will be a cure, but only if we don't pass the Assisted Suicide Bill.