

This is a bill i very much support.

Most people who are terminally ill don't want to needlessly suffer at the end of life.

I believe that a terminally ill patient should have the right to self administer medication, supplied by a doctor, to bring about his or her death.

This would be a blessing for the patient as well as the friends and family of the patient.

Passing this bill would allow death with dignity.