

Good evening,

I am a current resident of NYC but grew up in Great Barrington, MA. I, with a number of my friends, will be faced with a choice of where to start families and where to have second homes. My allegiance is to Great Barrington and Litchfield County (where I went to boarding school), but I find driving to and from the city challenging. An upgraded commuter line would, I think, enable a younger demographic of people to return to the place they once called home.

Thanks,
Rowan Morris
