

In Salem there is Boudeau Pheasant farm, who raises $30,000 plus birds. Employs some full time and in summer several young people. The hunters who hunt for pheasants have to buy the tags themselves. Generates sales of ammo, guns, bird dogs, and is part of our history. The hunters check the forest and if things are out of order they tell the owner or fix it themselves. These birds are part of our history and taking the pleasure that the hunters get, which they also pay for in buying tags, is something we do not want to lose. Larry Stevens Salem.