

As a Connecticut resident, I urge you to bring HB-5733 to a vote. The bill's aims of divestment from fossil fuels is a bold, difficult, but necessary and inevitable step for our state.

As a coastal state, it would be especially ironic and sad if we were to ignore the threat of global warming and overwhelming empirical evidence that human activity is causing the bulk of it. At least give the people a chance to view their thoughts on this measure and the crucial issue with which it deals. This is an opportunity for our state to get 'ahead of the curve' here-at least in thinking about divestment.

Thank you,
James Root
