

As a resident of the state of Connecticut for the last 3 years, I am starting to wonder if the state has any kind of fiscal responsibility, accountability or even knows how to apply our surging tax dollars in a smart and productive way to create sustainable growth and value for residents.

There are no jobs coming to the state that would provide sustainable economic growth; the infrastructure is deplorable and getting worse by the day – roads, trains, etc are falling apart.

Now they want to appropriate funds for a b-class sports team stadium – what lobbyist is doing the payoff for this? Does the state really think that second class sports entertainment is a recipe for growth?

Seriously, many people are voting with their feet and moving out of the state, as taxes are surging, the economy is declining and the once “exclusive” image of being a Connecticut resident is becoming more and more tarnished and almost embarrassing to admit to. If things continue this way, I may do the same...and I hope that if enough others start realizing the state of our state, they will either speak up or do the same.

This bill is absurd and abusing of citizens' tax dollars – I do not support this.
