As it's been enacted safely and with compassion in several other states, I believe it should be enacted in CT.

As medicine continues to overcome many of our physical abnormalities, we still have not conquered them all.

For those which are terminal and extremely painful, and in many cases, drawn-out, it is truly compassionate to relieve these persons of their torment, by allowing a quicker ending to their life.

We've given women back the right manage their own bodies by allowing safe, medically monitored, abortions. Surely it also so make sense, for everyone to be able to have control over their bodies for their own ultimate decision.
