My wife and I strongly support any legislation that permits an individual suffering from a terminal, debilitating illness or irreversible dementia to terminate their life under their own stipulations. Place as many safeguards as you deem advisable but please, please provide a vehicle for those who choose to leave this world on their own terms. The greatest fear that seniors like ourselves have is not of death but of the process of dying being yanked out of our control. Please do all you can to encourage this type of legislation.
