

The state's early prison release program is flawed, and helps to create the perception that citizens of Connecticut exist for the benefit of the state government, but that same government has no responsibility through its action or inaction for the safety of its law abiding public.

Under our current system, violent felons who have been released early from prison have gone on to commit terrible crimes, including brutal murders.

Please pass Senate Bill 1129, which adds manslaughter, persistent dangerous felons and sex offenders, aggravated sexual assault of a minor, and assault of pregnant woman resulting in loss of fetus as crimes for which a person cannot earn risk reduction credits.

Thank you.

--

Respectfully,

Scott Pierce
Eastern Connecticut, USA