

HB5915: An Act Concerning the Practice of Classical Homeopathy

February 21, 2015

To: Senator Terry Gerratana
Representative Matt Ritter
Distinguished Members of the Public Health Committee

From: Louise Sanchione, CCH, MA, MS
CT Alliance to Advance Homeopathy

I am writing to ask your support of HB5915: An Act Concerning the Practice of Classical Homeopathy. I have been studying, using and teaching homeopathy for over 20 years. As a former Special Education teacher, my specialty as a nationally Certified Classical Homeopath is working with children with special needs and their families. I have been practicing in Massachusetts for the past 10 years, not in Connecticut where I reside.

This is the third testimony I have written since we have sought legislation for the past five years. The CT Alliance To Advance Homeopathy is a relatively new group of CT citizens started last year when I realized the need to disseminate accurate information about Homeopathy and support the legislative efforts of the group Homeopathy for Connecticut.

Last year I testified about the effectiveness of homeopathy in treating mental health issues in children. Discussion and concern about this issue has been even more prevalent in the news, especially in our State and since the background regarding all aspects of the incident in Sandy Hook has been made public. Services provided by nationally Certified Classical Homeopaths can be an additional, affordable, effective option as Connecticut moves forward to increase mental health care for its citizens, most importantly its children.

For example, Homeopathy can offer a choice to parents who would like an alternative to having to treat anxiety in their 5 year old with psychiatric drugs that have only been tested on adults and have terrible side effects. Homeopathy has been proven in clinical and research studies to be effective in treating not only anxiety in children but also AD/HD, Conduct Disorders, OCD, depression and cognitive deficiencies and comes with NO lengthy warnings of possible side effects. (See list of resources at the end of this testimony.)

Classical Homeopathy is an over 200 year old, scientifically proven form of health care that is practiced in all 50 States and used worldwide by millions of people.

What's missing for me is the freedom to practice my profession here in my home State and the opportunity to better serve not just children with special needs but all CT citizens who seek an alternative choice in health care.

We were all so hopeful last year and grateful for the perseverance the Committee demonstrated and are hopeful this year for the passage of a law. With all the work that has been done this past year to better inform legislators of the possible opportunities Homeopathy can offer residents with real needs, I am very optimistic you will continue to support this issue and vote HB#5915 out of Committee and into law.

I thank you and your staff for all your efforts.

Respectfully submitted,
Louise Sanchione, CCH, MA, MS

112 Signatures for Testimony
In Support of Bill #5915
An Act Concerning the Practice of Classical Homeopathy
February 23, 2015

February 20, 2015

To: Senator Gerratana, Representative Ritter and Members of the Public Health Committee:

I am submitting the attached 112 signatures for testimony of Connecticut residents who want more access to homeopathy in their State. They want access to safe, effective health care and want to see nationally Certified Classical Homeopaths practicing in Connecticut.

Respectfully submitted,

Louise Sanchione, CCH, MA, MS

Objective: To allow nationally Certified Classical Homeopaths (CCH) the ability to practice in Connecticut ackground: Currently, a Connecticut law in place from 1893 restricts the practice of homeopathy to medical doctors only. (To date there are only 8 gistered in CT) Naturopathic doctors (ND) can use homeopathy as part of their scope of practice but can not call themselves homeopaths. Many NDs do ot use homeopathy as their primary treatment option. We, the people of Connecticut want access to safe, natural, effective and affordable health care for rselves and our families. We want increased and easy access to certified and highly qualified practitioners of homeopathy - Certified Classical Homeopaths. ve, the undersigned, petition the Connecticut State Legislature to pass a law during the 2014-2015 Legislative Session that would allow ationally Certified Classical Homeopaths who use the designation CCH to practice in Connecticut.
