

5915

To Whom it may concern,

First and above all, it is our right as consumers of our own health care to have the ability to choose where we wish to seek that care. I myself have been treated for many years by a certified classical homeopath, the highest level of achievement in the field.

The quality of education and standards, their knowledge and expertise should be respected as such. There is no reason why an antiquated law (1893) should be used as a guideline in the 21st century! I have referred to many practitioners, both allopathic and alternative. In many instances the synergy of a combined approach enables the patient to find the healing they sought and needed.

Therefore, I urge support of the proposed bill HB5915.

Sincerely yours,

Cindy Marcus, DC
