

Please rethink this misguided legislation. It does nothing to protect living endangered species and unfairly punishes Connecticut's museums, antique collectors and dealers who cherish our state's cultural and maritime heritage. Please redirect your efforts to enact measures that would restrict contemporary foreign made ivory goods that are responsible for the poaching trade and do not confuse those with genuine artifacts made two hundred years ago.

Lisa Krieger