

John Seacord
j54ms@aol.com
Roxbury, Connecticut 06783

So when any school, church, rescue squad or benevolent organization of any type offers to perform any "service", e.g. car wash, for a fee to help support any activity, our state legislature (responsible for an out of control financial position) seems to feel entitled to a share. I took the time to read the entire list of activities against which taxes have been assessed. Very impressive. Just a matter of time before a breathing tax is enacted as I now understand that a public hearing would not even be required.

John Seacord