

I am a Hamden, CT resident and also a special education teacher. It is truly important that Behavior Analysts receive a certified license in the state of Connecticut. This is important to protect students who receive behavior analytic services in school or in the home. These services have been crucial to student growth not only at school but in the home. This would help ensure that these staff have licensure and are qualified to implement appropriate quality programming for a variety of populations but especially students with autism who I work with. Please Support Bill SB 929 so we can protect our students and families to guarantee they are receiving a licensed and certified provider.

Thank you,
