

We will never regret saving open spaces for future generations. Oswegatchie Hills in East Lyme is a perfect example. The land was available to the town many years ago for a reasonable price and now it's threatened by development. We will never get it back. Tracy Collins