Upon our retirement in a few years, my wife and I plan to live in a state that does not impose a tax on social security. CT has one of the highest costs of living in the U.S. Paying taxes on Social Security income makes it unaffordable to live here. It will be sad to leave, as we have lived and worked here for 30 years. While our kids grew up here, they have all moved away. While it's a more worrisome prospect to relocate as seniors, all of our friends plan to relocate to a social security tax friendly state, too. Perhaps we'll all move south together.

CT needs to address it's tax unfriendly status. Soon, there will be very few CT citizens left to tax.
