Living in Connecticut is very difficult for retired people who are on Social Security. Our house taxes were raised again this year and my husband and I are forced to live "very close to the vest." We can't afford to take a vacation or spend money on anything but the necessities. We both live in fear of the other dying, because the one of us left would have to live on only the one check. It a frightening reality. If we could at least collect a SS check that doesn't have taxes taken out of it, it would be live receiving a very welcome "raise." On behalf of all Social Security recipients, I pray that this change in our benefits will be made.
