The state of Connecticut is taxing seniors out of the state. We have paid taxes on this money when fica was deducted from our paychecks, when we were employed. It's difficult enough to keep up with our every increasing real estate taxes and all of the other hidden taxes that we pay towards the states bloated budget and deficit spending. Our medical premiums have skyrocketed over the last few years and medicare pays less and less every year. Last year year we received no cola increases because of the feds convoluted arithmetic. My wife and I pay more than $800 per month for basic insurance with high deductibles and copayments.
