I believe the elimination of the personal income tax on social security benefits will help seniors who are struggling to get along on a fixed income. It would be a very welcomed tax relief and appreciated by all of us who are in this group. Cost of living increases are minimum for those of us on social security and zero for some years like the present. It is difficult to get along while the cost of food, medicines and other essentials continues to rise and your social security benefits remain constant and are minimal at best. Tax relief would be a breath of fresh air for all us. Thank you for every consideration.
