For citizens of Ct the cost of living in the state pre and post retirement is very high compared to many other states. From higher utility bills to high local property taxes, a high sales tax and fuels tax, and an income tax. There are more reasons to leave Ct than stay when one is retired and no longer dependent on a Ct employer. Eliminating the tax on SS benefits would begin to tilt the deck in favor of remaining in the state and help make Ct more competitive with other states that offer residents this benefit and still have a lower cost of living.
