

I support HB 5434.

"The current Electoral College system effectively disenfranchises millions of Americans in predictably red and blue states. Few should understand this better than Connecticut Republicans, whose votes for president haven't mattered since 1988, when George H.W. Bush won the state. Their votes – and their views – should count for just as much as those of citizens in other states, but they don't."

As a concerned citizen, I can't help but wonder if all my efforts to participate actively in this "democracy " matter if my vote doesn't count. Why bother?

Please support HB 5434 and respect the will of all voters.

With gratitude for your time and consideration,

Mary Fortunato
