I am writing in support of HB 5591. All employees should be paid based on their job performance, not on their gender. It is particularly appalling that the higher the education level of a woman, the more likely she is to earn less than an equally qualified male counterpart.

It is shameful that the gender pay gap still exists in 2017. It harms working women, it harms families, and it goes against the principles of our democracy by discriminating against workers because of their gender.

Sincerely,
Shanti Whitesides
