

We are the largest Carp Tackle importer in the USA. This last year we sold a great deal of tackle to Connecticut and also we supply two tackle shops with carp specific tackle.

Anglers are excited about what's going on and CT and planning trips to fish there. Now we hear Bowfishing won't be regulated as the regulations required? There is no doubt that will effect the 2 shops there providing tackle and bait to those visiting anglers. Then the question is why go to CT? You have a huge advantage to draw carp anglers from all over including Europe. You have some great momentum.

I hope you don't do something to effect that in a negative way.
