

Good morning

I sent an email on this yesterday, but the issue is so important that I wanted to reiterate my comments and express my opposition to Senate Bill #10.

I cannot overstate the fact that Connecticut needs to STOP looking for new and creative ways to tax the residents and put that effort into creativity on budget cuts, efficiency and similar goals. How can the State of Connecticut do it's job more effectively and relieve some of the burden on our taxpayers and small businesses? I would like to hear some of these ideas rather than a constant list of new taxes, fees and ways to balance the budget on the backs of residents.

Every resident in the state has had to tighten their belt the last several years. I had to find ways to get by with a consistent income. This meant looking for savings and reducing our bills. The State of Connecticut needs to do the same.

Please say NO to Senate bill #10 and spend some time reducing spending, making cuts and finding creative ways to make our state more efficient. We will all benefit if these hard choices and decisions can be implemented.

Thank you!

Steve
