

I am a constituent from Bristol.

I'm thrilled that the CGA is taking up the issue of microfiber pollution from clothing. I've read studies showing that there is more plastic pollution from clothing microfibers in the oceans than there is from plastic trash. It's more insidious because it's microscopic, and so, harder to deal with. Prevention is the best course, so I applaud the CGA's proposal to create a working group to develop education and labeling.

This is a matter that is dear to my heart. I run a small business in which I create upcycled clothing (I rescue clothes that people are done with, and sew it into new garments (a way to combine art and environmentalism). I use only natural fiber clothing, for the purpose of protecting our waterways. I would be happy to include labeling that addresses the issue.

Thank you.
