

To whom it may concern,

I am advocating that the State follow the key recommendations of the State Commission on Fiscal Stability and Growth. While many seem to want to continue to continue the current path the State is on this Commission was put together to look at and give recommendations based on their expertise and knowledge. Not following these recommendations seems to say that if the Commission does not come up with the recommendations we want we will ignore them. So if the State realizes that there is a problem and what we are doing is not working, creates a Commission and chooses not to follow the Commission's recommendations? Then what is the solution? It would seem that with the condition of our State that our Politicians in Hartford do not have the solutions. That is why this Commission was formed, to come up with solutions. Follow the recommendations made by this Commission.

Respectfully,
