

Having been involved with my son and his girlfriend within unplanned pregnancy, I understand the ignorance and the fear that goes along with this situation. Giving them the knowledge that they needed they ended up having the child and changed their lives for the better. People in this situation need a listening and compassionate ear. Often emotion takes over the decision-making. We need to help and support women who are having to make this very important decision.

Roger Richard DMD